QUEENSLAND

COUNCIL FOR

CIVIL LIBERTIES

Is a voluntary organisation concerned with the protection of individual rights and civil liberties

The Council aims:-

- ❖ To be vigilant in matters affecting civil liberties and to safeguard and develop respect for human rights and freedoms.
- ❖ To educate and provide information about threats to individual rights and civil liberties and to foster the study of legal and human rights.
- ❖ To seek solutions to problems related to civil liberties, including misuse of government powers, privacy, FOI, prison reform, police powers and rights of minority groups.
- ❖ To have a Human Rights Act in Queensland.

The Council:

- Makes submissions to governments, inquiries or relevant authorities.
- Issues press releases on relevant issues and encourages public debate.
- Supports publication of books and pamphlets on relevant subjects.
- Addresses groups (by invitation).
- Organises lectures and seminars.
- Invites you to become a member.

You can help....

- By joining QCCL and working with us.
- By giving a morning or afternoon regularly to assist with administration or education activities.
- By helping with regular newsletters.
- By attending meetings, rallies, or lectures that are supported by the Council.
- By arranging discussions in your club or with your friends (speakers available).
- By talking with your member of parliament
